Sizzling Careers to Launch This Summer

CollegeSurfing.com Offers Access to Today's Hottest Professions

Staten Island, NY, June 12, 2007 – Summer is here, and what better way to kick off the season than by securing a scorching hot career? CollegeSurfing.com provides dedicated students with inside information into the country's fastest growing occupations, as projected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. (Bonus: These careers only require short-term study!) Here, CollegeSurfing.com offers a sneak peek at some of the hottest jobs this season:

Medical Assistant

Records vital signs, collects lab specimens, administers medications, and more. Students can increase their marketability by earning the Certified Medical Assistant credential through the American Association of Medical Assistants, or the Registered Medical Assistant credential through American Medical Technologists.

Physical Therapist Assistant

Prevents and treats conditions associated with loss of mobility. With targeted vocational education, students learn how to teach patients exercises for mobility, strength, and coordination; they also learn the art of massage.

Legal Assistant

Investigates and analyzes cases, and prepares reports to help attorneys determine how to handle each case. Students can up their career ante by earning the Certified Legal Assistant designation from the National Association of Legal Assistants.

Dental Assistant

Takes dental X-rays, removes sutures, makes casts of the teeth and mouth from impressions, makes temporary crowns, and more. Key benefit: Nine out of 10 dental assistants receive dental coverage, reports the American Dental Association.

Occupational Therapist Assistant

Works with patients to improve their basic motor functions and reasoning abilities, and compensate for permanent loss of function. Students are trained to help people achieve independence in all areas of life.
